

APPARATUS FOR DAMPING RESONANCE IN A CONDUIT

Abstract

Method and apparatus for damping resonance in a conduit (10) utilized for transporting exhaust gases from an internal combustion engine. The resonance is damped by virtue of the conduit (10) being provided with at least one perforation (14) located at a distance from the outlet end (11) of the conduit.